Cornell University

Charter for the Office of University Ombuds
Updated: October 2022

The Cornell University Ombuds is a confidential, independent, impartial, and informal resource available to students, staff, and faculty at the university to address conflicts, concerns, or other issues affecting their work, life, or study at Cornell. The position was established in 1969 and has existed continuously since then. This Charter is fundamentally based on the Guidelines originally established for the office, which received minor revisions in 1971 and 2013.

Appointment of Ombuds
The University Ombuds is appointed by the University President, subject to approval of the University Assembly. The Ombuds serves a two-year term, which may be renewed indefinitely. To fill a vacancy in the office, the President or a designee will appoint a search committee to which the Assembly may appoint a representative.

The University Ombuds is responsible for appointing other Ombuds Office staff.

Jurisdiction
The Ombuds Office is available to all students, staff, and faculty affiliated with all units of Cornell University, excluding Weill Cornell Medicine.

Purpose and Services Offered
The Ombuds Office supports Cornell’s core values, including its commitment to being a community of belonging and to free and open inquiry and expression. The Ombuds Office fosters a culture of respect, inclusion, ethical behavior and fair process.

The Ombuds Office offers a safe place where community members may discuss conflicts, problems, or other issues. The Ombuds listens to visitor concerns, facilitates constructive dialogue, and assists in evaluating available options. Use of the Ombuds Office is entirely voluntary in all cases.

The Ombuds Office also serves as a conflict resolution resource, to advise members of the community about where to turn and what procedures to follow to pursue whatever concern they may have.

7 In most cases, references in this Charter to the Ombuds refer to both the individual appointed as University Ombuds and to the staff of the Ombuds Office.
The Ombuds Office provides information on University policies, procedures, and practices; provides information on how to make the University aware of particular concerns; and refers visitors to the proper authority to resolve concerns or issues.

The Ombuds Office brings to the attention of those in authority (and, if necessary, to the community at large) any gaps and inadequacies in existing University policies and procedures.

While maintaining confidentiality, the Ombuds Office provides the University with early warning of emerging issues or patterns of concerns. The Ombuds alerts the appropriate administrator (or other person in authority) when a systemic issue or trend occurs, for the purpose of improving existing processes.

The Ombuds Office responds to concerns that decisions affecting members of the community are made with reasonable promptness, and that all members of the community receive due process.

The Ombuds Office responds to concerns about the adequacy of procedures adopted to reach decisions, and also about the appropriateness of the criteria and rules used to reach decisions.

While the Ombuds Office does not advocate for any particular visitor, the Ombuds Office does serves as an advocate for dignity, equity, and inclusion at Cornell. The Ombuds Office contributes to fair processes, fair treatment, and fair outcomes at the University.

Ethical Principles
In all activities, the Ombuds follows principles presented in the Standards of Practice and Ethical Principles of the International Ombuds Association: Confidentiality, Independence, Impartiality, and Informality.

I. Confidentiality
The Ombuds holds the identity and all communications with those seeking assistance in strict confidence, and does not disclose confidential communications unless given permission to do so, except as required by law, or where, in the judgment of the Ombuds, there appears to be imminent risk of serious harm.

The confidentiality of Ombuds Office communications is honored at all levels of the University. Accordingly, there is an expectation that the Ombuds will normally not be asked to testify on the University’s behalf in internal and/or external proceedings. No meetings are recorded by the Ombuds Office, by visitors, or by University staff unless explicitly permitted.
II. Independence
As stated in the 1969 Kahn memo that established the role, the Ombuds Office “shall be independent of all existing administrative structures of the University.” The Ombuds is independent in structure, function, and appearance to the highest degree possible within Cornell. The office is ultimately accountable for its operation to the community.

III. Impartiality
The Ombuds, as a designated neutral, remains unaligned and impartial. The Ombuds strives to promote procedural fairness in the content and administration of Cornell’s practices, processes, and policies. The Ombuds does not engage in any situation that could create a conflict of interest.

IV. Informality
The Ombuds, as an informal resource, does not participate in any formal adjudicative or administrative procedure related to concerns brought to their attention. As an informal resource, the Ombuds is not authorized to accept notice (formal complaints) for Cornell. The Ombuds can provide information to the visitor on how to make the University aware of a particular issue. However, because the Ombuds holds all communications with those seeking assistance in strict confidence, subject to the limited exceptions detailed above, the Ombuds will not forward information received in confidence.

Access to Information
If the Ombuds Office staff believe they need access to official University information to fulfill their functions, they may request such information from appropriate University officials. All such officials shall, subject to University policies and protocols, and state and federal law, share such information as may be appropriate.

Any requests for information will honor the tenet of confidentiality.

Ombuds Authority
The Ombuds can exercise no powers that are beyond the legal authority of the University.

The Ombuds does not make University policy or replace established legislative or judicial procedures.

The Ombuds does not make binding decisions, mandate policies, or formally adjudicate issues for the University. The Ombuds does not participate in any formal investigative or adjudicative procedures. When a formal investigation is requested, the Ombuds refers visitors to the appropriate office or individual. The Ombuds does not provide legal advice. The Ombuds is not authorized to speak on behalf of the University.
Ombuds services are informal and supplement, but do not replace, formal processes available to the University community.

Budget
To fulfill the Ombuds Office function, the office shall have a budget that contains sufficient resources to meet operating needs and to adequately serve the community, including sufficient staff and continuing professional development.

The University Ombuds shall have the sole authority to manage the budget, operations of the office, including the hiring of all Ombuds Office staff.

No Retaliation for Using Ombudsman Office
All students, faculty and staff have the right to freely use the services of the Ombuds Office. Retaliation for exercising this right shall not be tolerated.

No Records
The Ombuds Office shall not keep records for itself or for the University. For purposes of the Annual report, the Ombuds may keep non-identifiable data such as the number of yearly visitors and the broad problem areas for which Ombuds services are sought.

Any written or electronic notes related to visitors are destroyed at regular intervals. Because of confidentiality concerns, the Ombuds discourages visitors from communicating confidential information electronically.

Annual Report
The Ombuds shall make an Annual report to the University community.

The Annual report communicates non-identifiable data and overall trends.

The Annual report is presented annually to the University Assembly and to others as requested.

Amendments
The Cornell community, represented through the University Assembly, is responsible for any amendments to this Charter.

Summary of changes to Ombuds Office Charter
14 October 2022

SUMMARY OF CHANGES

The revised Charter is essentially based on the existing Guidelines, last updated in 2013. We’ve retitled them as a “Charter,” to align with best practices suggested by the International Ombuds Association (IOA). The substantive content is virtually unchanged, except for updating of “Ombudsman” to “Ombuds.” We did move and combine a few sections, in the interest of clarity and avoiding duplication. We also made a formatting change: rather than quoting the original 1969 and 1971 guidelines, we’ve incorporated most of that text directly into the document, to make it read more smoothly.

Key changes:

- “Appointment of Ombuds”: Instead of quoting overall UA bylaws (which have changed), just states info relevant to Ombuds.
- “Purpose and Services Offered”: Added link to Cornell’s core values. Revised some paragraphs to read as direct text, rather than quotes from other documents. Updated some language regarding campus culture.
- “Ethical Principles”: Added link to IOA Standards of Practice and Ethical Principles; revised wording to be clear that our principles follow IOA, but are not identical. Moved a paragraph on confidentiality being honored at all levels of University from a separate heading to being within “Confidentiality” principle. Moved a paragraph on not receiving notice from a separate heading to being within “Informality” principle.
- “Access to Information”: Revised to read as direct text, rather than quotes from other documents.
- “Ombuds Authority”: Revised to read as direct text, rather than quotes from other documents.
- “Confidentiality of Communications”: Moved text to “Confidentiality” section of “Ethical Principles.”
- “Receiving Notice for Cornell University”: Moved text to “Informality” section of “Ethical Principles.”

U.A. Resolution #6

Alterations to Codes and Judicial Committee Name and Function

[03/22/2022]

Sponsors: James Richards, with agreement from the Codes and Judicial Committee

ABSTRACT: The University Assembly By-laws must be updated after adoption of the Student Code of Conduct this academic year. As the CJC is no longer tasked with approval/rejection of all Resolutions, it will instead function as a non-judicial body providing an avenue for objective review of regulations of conduct across the entire Cornell population. Additionally, the CJC will undergo a name-change and role-clarification to reflect the structure of the new disciplinary hearing process and University Hearing and Review Panel appointment procedure.

Whereas, prior to this update, the University Assembly By-laws state “By delegation from the Assembly, the Codes and Judicial Committee will review any proposed motion related to:

- Campus Code of Conduct; and
- recruitment and appointment of members to the University Hearing and Review Boards”,

and

Whereas, the By-laws also state “The Committee may propose, review, and amend resolutions as it deems appropriate. The Committee must approve resolutions referred for its consideration before they can be advanced to the Assembly for a vote and for debate. The Judicial Administrator and Judicial Codes Counselor serve as non-voting, ex-officio members of the Committee,” and

Whereas, the CJC is no longer tasked with mandatory review of UA resolutions under the Student Code of Conduct, and

Whereas, recruitment and appointment of University Hearing and Review Panel (hereinafter “UHRP”) members is no longer delegated to this Committee, but to the Director of the OSCCS, Executive Committee, and the Assemblies & Senate, and
Whereas, replacement of the Campus Code of Conduct with the Student Code of Conduct has raised concerns about the ability of a non-administrative, non-judicial body to ensure fair and even-handed regulation of conduct across every constituency within Cornell.

Be it therefore resolved, the language of the By-laws will be altered to reflect the CJC’s new role and new name, both of which shall reflect the new Student Code of Conduct, and

Be it further resolved, the By-laws shall be amended to state:

“By delegation from the Assembly, the Campus Codes & Conduct Committee (hereinafter “CCCC”) shall be authorized to:

- Upon request from the Senate and Assemblies, provide information and guidance regarding the UHRP solicitation and appointment process, in order to facilitate the smooth and timely appointment of UHRP members,
- Receive and consider complaints or concerns regarding inconsistent regulation of conduct within the Cornell community, and
- In its discretion, bring forth to the University Assembly any such complaints or concerns that it has received and considered.”

Be it further resolved, the By-laws shall be amended to clarify these responsibilities, by stating:

“The Committee will function as a non-judicial, non-administrative body authorized to receive and consider complaints or concerns from any member of the Cornell community regarding inconsistent application of Cornell’s codes or regulations of conduct. Such issues can include but are not limited to: freedom of speech issues, collective bargaining restraints, and general application of standards of conduct.”

Be it further resolved, the By-laws shall be amended to clarify these responsibilities by stating:
“After receipt and consideration of such complaints and concerns, this committee shall be authorized to bring forth such complaints and concerns at the soonest practicable University Assembly meeting.”

Be it finally resolved, that future editions of the University Assembly By-laws contain such language.

Respectfully Submitted,

James Richards

Codes and Judicial Committee, Chair
Dear Brandon,

Thank you for submitting University Assembly Resolution 6, “Alterations to Codes and Judicial Committee Name and Function,” for my consideration.

As you know, the Student Code of Conduct (SCC) adopted by the Board of Trustees in December 2020 was the result of a years-long effort that included a report from the Presidential Task Force on Campus Climate and input from many campus constituents, including the University Assembly (and the Codes and Judicial Committee), the Student Assembly, the Graduate and Professional Student Assembly, the Faculty Senate, the Judicial Codes Counselors, the Complainants Advisors, and university administration. That robust process led to the adoption of a modern statement of student rights and responsibilities built on contemporary student conduct best practices and aimed at achieving educational and rehabilitative goals by eliminating the Campus Code of Conduct’s prosecutorial model, increasing opportunities for mediation and alternative dispute resolution, and creating the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards (OSCCS) to impartially and professionally administer the conduct system under the oversight of the Vice President for Student and Campus Life (VP SCL). Unlike the previous Campus Code of Conduct, the SCC only applies to students.

Ordinarily, the administration defers to the UA’s passage of bylaw amendments that govern its internal operations. However, UA6 is inconsistent with the Board of Trustees’ resolution adopting the SCC. Authority over the SCC and responsibility for its administration is vested with the VP SCL, with a participatory role for the Student Assembly and Graduate and Professional Student Assembly in reviewing applications for membership on the University Hearing and Review Board and considering amendments to the SCC.

The UA’s areas of responsibility are defined by the delegations made to the UA by the trustees. UA6 nevertheless claims authority over areas that have not been delegated to it, including acting as a “non-judicial, non-administrative body authorized to receive and consider complaints” on a wide range of matters, including “the application of Cornell’s codes or regulations of conduct,” matters of freedom of speech, and collective bargaining issues. Oversight of these areas is appropriately handled by various administrative units of the university, and the UA cannot assume review authority over them.

For these reasons, I must reject this resolution. I do want to assure you that the VP SCL and the Director of OSCCS are committed to a fair and evenhanded application of the SCC, and to following the SCC’s provisions regarding the participation by specified assemblies in certain aspects of the implementation and amendment of the SCC.

Sincerely,
